Did You Know? Facts about Washington, D.C.

- Established in 1801, Marine Barracks Washington is the "Oldest Post of the Corps" and has been the residence of every commandant of the Marine Corps since 1806.
- Francis Scott Key, who wrote our national anthem, was a D.C. National Guardsman.
- The Joint Committee on Landmarks has designated the Washington Navy Yard Historic District a Category II Landmark of importance, which contributes significantly to the cultural heritage and visual beauty of the District of Columbia.

Department of Defense Mission

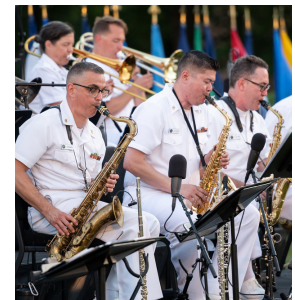

The mission of the Department of Defense (DoD) is to provide the military forces needed to deter war and ensure our nation's security.

Sustainability and the DoD Mission

DoD facilities on land, on the water, and in the air protect our nation. The Regional Environmental Coordinator (REC) works cooperatively with state agencies and governments on environmental efforts to ensure continued use of necessary land, sea, and airspace – protecting the military's ability to maintain operations into the future and prepare U.S. service men and women to defend our country.

DoD and State Partnerships

Through the REC program, DoD and military service representatives partner with state agencies and governments to strengthen environmental restoration and protection efforts and to promote long-term sustainability of the military mission. Program efforts include educating state agencies and officials about the military's operational and environmental needs, priorities, and concerns; communicating coordinated DoD positions on issues affecting military sustainment; and engaging in state legislative and rulemaking initiatives.

Chesapeake Bay Program

As a landowner and member of the Bay community, DoD is committed to restoring and protecting the Chesapeake Bay and its watershed and has established a joint DoD Chesapeake Bay Program.

The mission of the program is to incorporate restoration, pollution prevention, and stewardship initiatives for the Chesapeake Bay into DoD's mission of providing the military forces needed to deter war and ensure our nation's security. The program facilitates partnerships to strengthen Bay restoration and protection efforts and engage all levels of DoD military, civilians, and their families to become environmental stewards of the watershed.

1 Joint Base Anacostia-Bolling

Joint Base Anacostia-Bolling is a 1,018-acre base located in Southeast D.C. situated between the Potomac and Anacostia rivers. Joint Base Anacostia-Bolling's primary mission is to support the 17,000 military and civilian members it serves in the National Capital Region.

2 U.S. Naval Research Laboratory

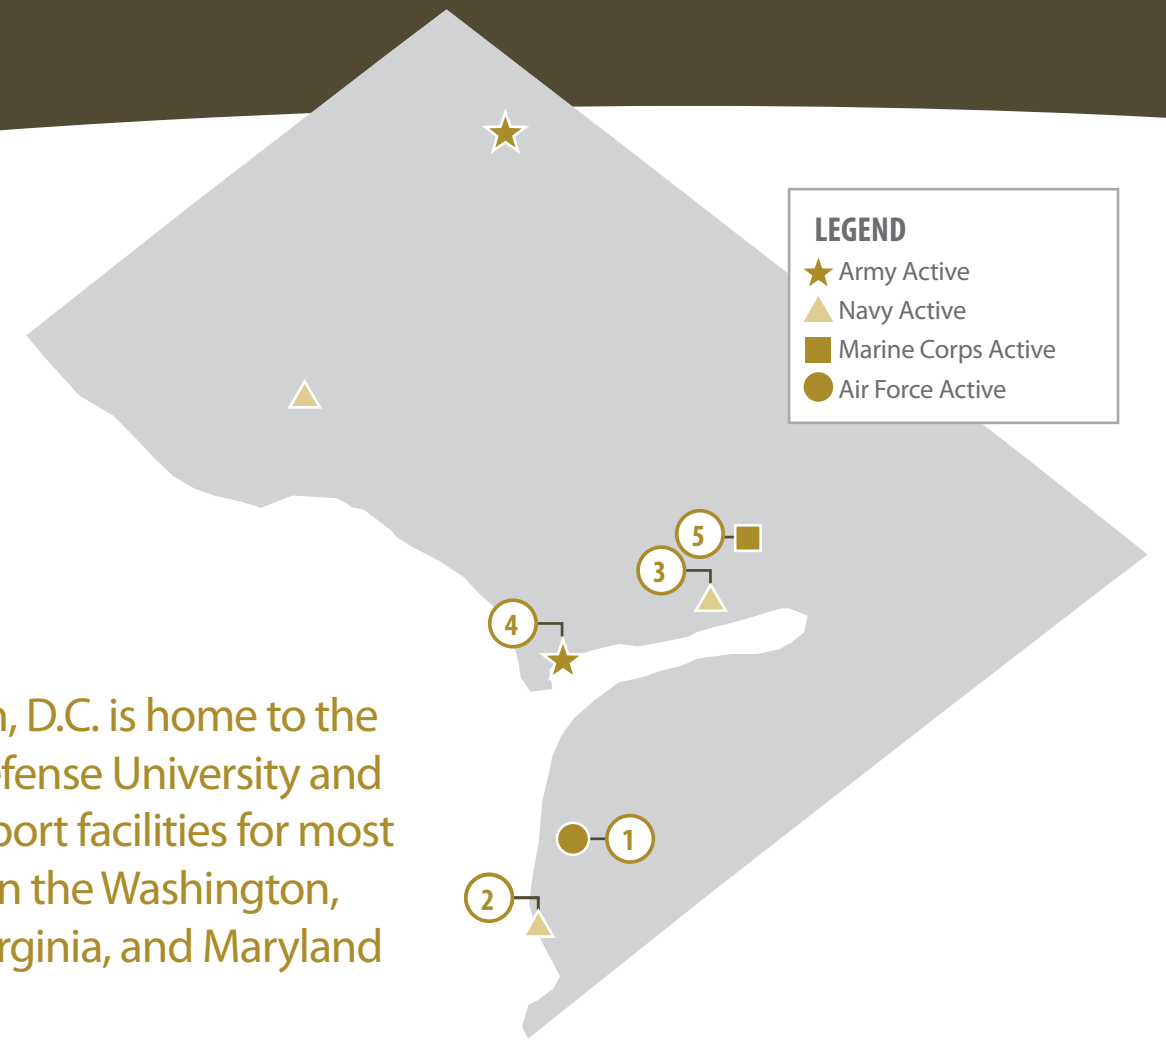

The U.S. Naval Research Laboratory operates as the Navy's full-spectrum corporate laboratory, conducting scientific research and development of maritime applications of new and improved materials, techniques, equipment, and systems, as well as ocean, atmospheric, and space sciences and related technologies. The laboratory is a complex of diverse scientific facilities with a staff of more than 2,500 researchers, engineers, technicians, and support personnel.

3 Washington Navy Yard

The Washington Navy Yard, authorized by the first Secretary of the Navy, Benjamin Stoddert, in 1799, is the U.S. Navy's oldest shore establishment. Today, the Washington Navy Yard continues to be the "Quarterdeck of the Navy" and serves as the Headquarters for Naval District Washington, where it houses numerous support activities for fleet and aviation communities.

Washington, D.C. is home to the National Defense University and central support facilities for most Navy units in the Washington, Northern Virginia, and Maryland areas.

4 Fort McNair Army Base

Fort Lesley J. McNair is located on the point of land where the Potomac and Anacostia rivers join in Washington, D.C. The fort has been an Army post for more than 200 years, third only to West Point and Carlisle Barracks in length of service. The fort is also home to the National Defense University and the Military District of Washington headquarters.

5 Marine Barracks Washington

Marine Barracks Washington, D.C., also known as "8th & I," is the oldest active post in the United States Marine Corps (USMC). The barracks were founded by President Thomas Jefferson and Lt. Col. William Ward Burrows, the second commandant of the Marine Corps, in 1801, and today support both ceremonial and security missions in the nation's capital. The barracks are home to many nationally recognized units, including the Marine Corps Silent Drill Platoon, United States Marine Drum and Bugle Corps, United States Marine Band, United States Marine Corps Color Guard, and Marine Corps Body Bearers, and are the site of the Home of the Commandants.

National Guard and Reserve Components

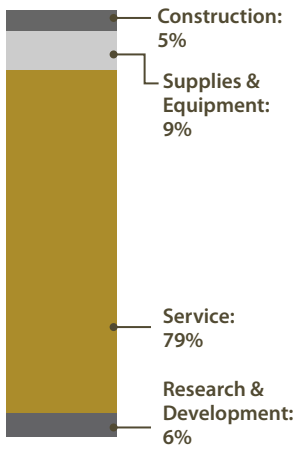

The National Guard and Reserve organize, train, and equip citizen soldiers and airmen for rapid mobilization in the state, nation, and around the world. While all Reserve components have a federal mission to augment active duty forces in times of crises, the Guard has the unique mission of serving the Governor during state emergencies. The D.C. National Guard has protected the nation's capital for more than 200 years, including 24-hour protective coverage over the skies of the city since September 11, 2001.
