Introduction

- As the largest military department within the Department of Defense (DoD), encompassing the active Army, U.S. Army Reserves, and the Army National Guard, the Army bears a broad national defense mission to provide combat-ready forces for the United States.
- Managing the largest portfolio of historic buildings in the DoD, and among all federal agencies, the Army's holdings include:
 - 13 million acres of land across 134 installations, including 9 million acres dedicated to military training and testing with
 - 84,000+ archeological sites
 - Over 350,000 buildings and structures support the Army's readiness mission, of which 122,000 are subject to Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA)
- The Army has a robust and well-established historic preservation program with a strong, 40-year track record of continuous improvement in NHPA compliance. Demonstrated by:
 - NHPA integration into Army Regulation 200-1
 - Current NHPA policy memoranda and implementing guidance
 - 5 Program Comments
 - Employs over 300 historic preservation professionals across the Army
 - Over 120 Army installation Cultural Resources Management Plans

Overview

- This proposed Program Comment is designed to address and streamline the Army's (Army) compliance with Section 106 of the NHPA and its implementing regulation, 36 CFR § 800, for Army warfighting readiness activities.
- By implementing this Program Comment, the Army will be able to effectively balance and execute its continuous transformation to a leaner, more lethal force, and crucial warfighting readiness mission with its historic preservation responsibilities by leveraging in-house expertise.
- This streamlined approach will enable more agile responses to the Army's operational needs and reduce administrative burdens on the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP), State Historic Preservation Offices (SHPOs), and Army installations.
- The approach will maintain the Army's government-to-government relationships with Federally recognized Tribes and uphold the special relationship with Native Hawaiian Organizations (NHOs), while ensuring the Army's continued responsible stewardship of historic properties.

Program Comment Summary

- Scope of the Program Comment: Army warfighting readiness activities (military training, testing, and industrial activities) and the buildings, structures, and landscapes associated with those activities. Covers buildings and structures of all ages associated with readiness. Excludes historic housing due to coverage under other Program Comments.
- Addresses Emerging Process and Capabilities Issues: The modernization of a huge and aging Army infrastructure and increasing operational demands will require rapid implementation and will drive a significant increase in the number of Army actions subject to Section 106 review. This increase in undertakings and need for timely implementation will further strain the capacities of SHPOs, ACHP, and Army installations. Consequences of this situation include delays in actions support warfighting readiness, increased costs due to delays and application of overly restrictive preservation standards, and a heightened risk of compliance challenges.
- Builds on Past Successes: The Army proposes a Program Comment that establishes a comprehensive approach to managing historic properties associated with warfighting readiness activities. This Program Comment builds on the successful ACHP-approved Program Comments for historic Army housing and directly addresses the emerging process and capabilities issues.

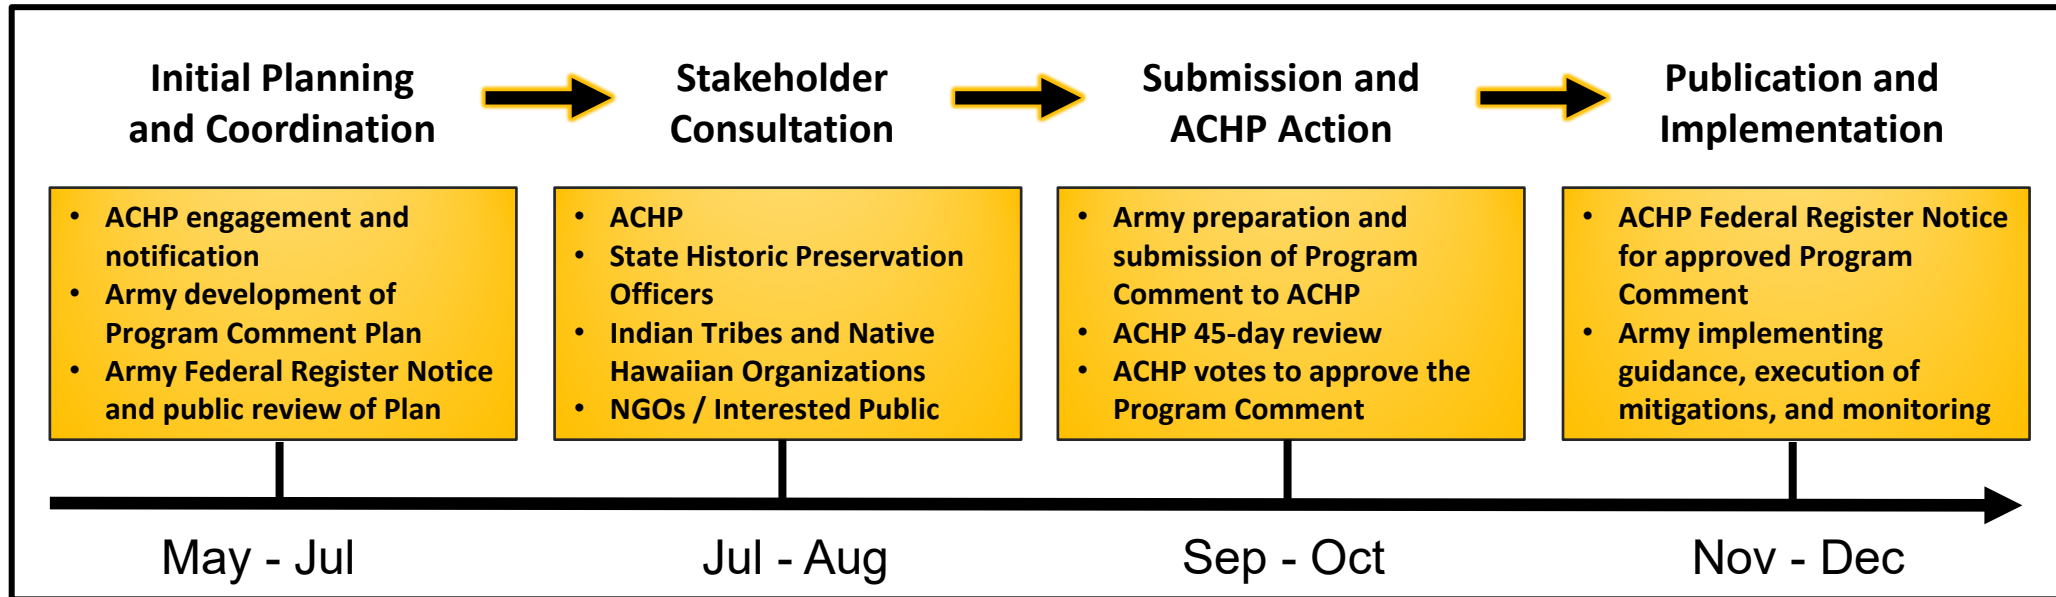

Key Features & Benefits
