

Oregon Central Oregon Training Center

Facility and Location

The Central Oregon Training Center, located near the city of Redmond, serves as a Utilities Training and Equipment Site (UTES) for Central Oregon. There is a maintenance shop with about 15 full time employees. This facility is in the process of downsizing because the UTES will be moving to the Umatilla Army Depot Area and the site will become a smaller field maintenance site (FMS). A newer (five years old) outdoor baffled range sits just outside the UTES area, but is under command and control of our Biak Training Site which is located about five miles further out of town. UTES have equipment in their compound which units can use to train and return after a weekend or annual training period.
